TEE-DEE WANT ADS. ARE SMALL OPPORTUNITIES WHICH BRING BIG RESULTS

Suit for Gems Alleges Fraud

litigation has already occurred as an outgrowth of affairs connected with the eminent jurist and spiritualist, but the Mr. Marsh's medium, Mrs. Clarissa J. Huyler. This action is brought in the Edward E. Conkling, executors of Mrs

Edward E. Conkling, executors of Mrs. Huyler's will, to recover diamonds alleged to have been the property of Mrs. Huyler, which Mr Huyler took possession of shortly after her death.

In his answer to the complaint Mr. Huyler brands his deceased wife as a deceiver of Mr. Marsh that she might obtain personal gain. The document filed as the answer is regarded as one of the most remarkable of the kind ever set forth in court. Mr. Huyler, the defendant, alleges that the said property did not belong to Mrs. Huyler at the time of her death, and in defense of this allegation says:

of her death, and in decease of this and gation says:

"At the time the said Luther R. Marsh came to reside with Clarissa Huyler, about the year 1800, the said Luther R. Marsh was and for many years had been a strong believer in what was commonly known as spiritualism, and befeved that the spirits of the dead communicated their wishes and desires and what they knew to be for the benefit and good of the living, to whom such communicated through mediums.

"That said Clarissa J. Huyler claimed to be a medium through whom spirits of the dead could communicate with the living; and that as said alleged medium she alleged and stated to the said Lu-ing; and that as said alleged medium she alleged and stated to the said Luther R. Marsh that the spirits of his departed wife and of others of his departed friends united in urging him to purchase and let her have the use of the personal property mentioned.

"That Mr. Marsh believed that mediums were to be treated with the highest kind of regard, and that if not obeyed something terrible would befall the person disobeying them,

"That Mrs. Huyler had obtained an unwarranted influence over Mr. Marsh, and that the statements and allegations made by her in relation to what the spirits said in regard to his purchasing the property and letting her have the use of the same were fraudulent, false and un-property and letting her have the use of the same were fraudulent, false and un-true, made with the intent and the pur-pose of deceiving Marsh."

The defendant therefore demands that the case against him be dismissed, with cests. The case will probably come to trial at the next term of court.
